Believing in life
Wanting to fly
But still afraid of falling,
Without knowing why.

Searching for something
Just what I don't know,
My mind reaching outward
With nothing to show.

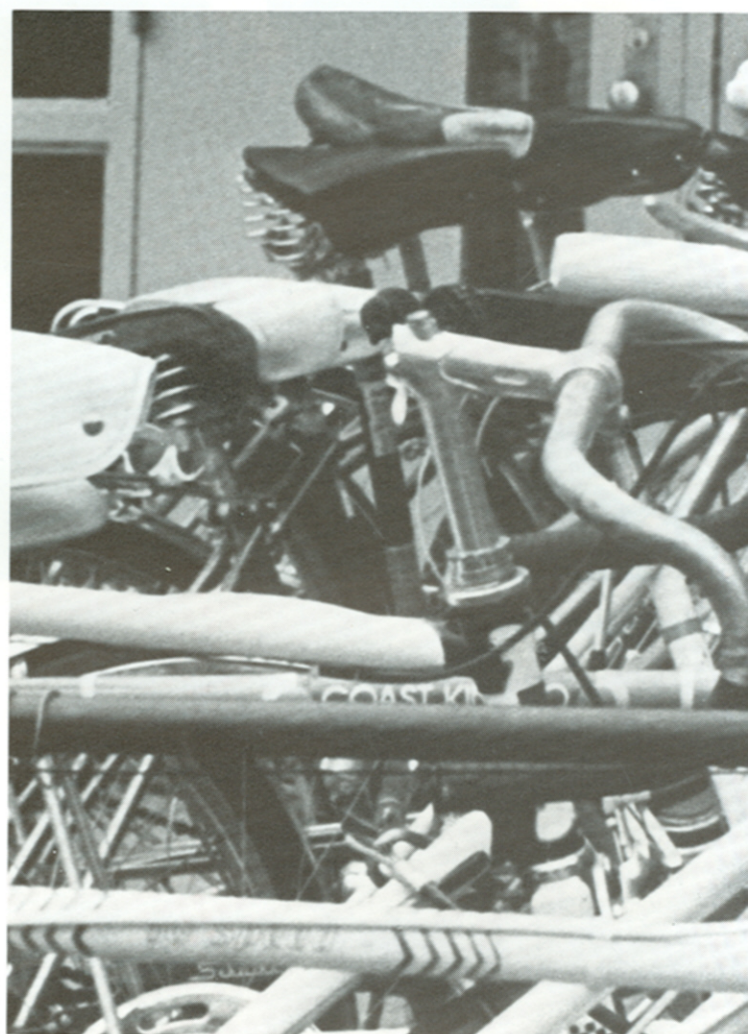

Yearning for someone
A void to be filled
Groping, uncertain
And in part unfulfilled.

I must discover
My purpose and goal
The joy to be living
The key to my soul

This year's TOWER has truly been a puzzle. Trying to find the missing pieces wasn't always easy. Working with a limited budget and without a publisher was as experience, to say the least! I am glad I had the opportunity to learn from this experience. Now, as I draw close to the final deadline, I breathe a sigh of relief. I am proud of the staff and of the book, not because it is a literary masterpiece (I recognize it's flaws), but because we did our best in the face of near disaster. I would like to introduce the pieces of our puzzle:

A little more tired at the close of the day,
A little less anxious to have our way,
A little less anxious to scold and blame,
A little more care for a brother's name;
And so we are nearing the journey's end,
Where time and eternity meet and blend.
